1. Source states that two ringleaders of the riots which took place in Accra eighteen months ago were in touch with communist elements. However, the riots themselves were inspired by strong nationalist feelings and were actually implemented by bandits.
2. On 1 April 1949, according to source, some of the ringleaders spoke of taking further action against the British, but it now appears that any contemplated action has been put off indefinitely.
3. Source does not feel that this latest agitation is inspired by Communists, or that there is any immediate danger, but that the situation bears further close observation.
